

Before implementing a program, you want to ensure that you have identified a program that aligns with an organization's and community's needs and capacity. A program that addresses the needs you have identified in your community, fits your budget and resources, and takes into consideration the organization with which you work is more likely to reach and sustain the intended program outcomes for your target audience. We have developed the following tool that is intended to assist communities in determining program fit & feasibility.

ASSESSING PROGRAM FIT & FEASIBILITY

Instructions: It is important that before you complete this tool that you identify a program that you are considering implementing within your community. Please answer the following questions on the potential program by checking either yes, somewhat, or no.

Program Research & Fit	Yes	Somewhat	No
Question 1: Has there been research conducted on the program? If no, skip to question 5.
Question 2: Has the research on the program demonstrated significant impacts on the short- and long-term outcomes you wish to influence in your community?
Question 3: Has the research on the program demonstrated effects for the population you wish to serve (e.g., consider age, school grade, gender, race, rural vs. urban, and levels of risk)?
Question 4: Has the program been researched in and recommended for the setting (e.g., school, after-school, community organization) you plan to implement it in?
Question 5: Does the program align with the culture and values of the community, stakeholders, and target population?

FIT & FEASIBILITY SCORE

Please record the total for Program Fit and Program Feasibility from the tables above. Compare your score with the score listed in the box below.

Program Fit Score

Program Fit
Not a Good Fit	6 or Less
Moderate Fit	7 to 9
Good Fit	10 or higher

Program Feasibility Score

Program Feasibility
Not Feasible	11 or Less
Moderately Feasible	12 to 17
Very Feasible	18 or higher

If a program achieves, a “Good Fit” and “Very Feasible” score then the program aligns well with your community and has a higher chance of reaching the intended outcomes with the target audience. However, if the program has a “Good Fit” score but has a “Moderately Feasible” score, then you may not have as high of a chance of reaching the intended outcomes. Programs with a score in the range of “not a good fit” or “not feasible” should be avoided as they are not as likely to produce and sustain the desired outcomes with your target audience.

Available or Achievable Resources

This section will help you determine the resources that you have and the resources that you need in order to implement the program.
