PROGRAM EVALUATION

Here at the Clearinghouse, we're focused on making sure programs are delivering outcomes and demonstrating value.

Our evaluations address critical questions such as how to improve upon an existing project you're working on and how to determine if a program is having the desired impact.

Services include, but are not limited to:

- ★ Evaluability assessments
- ★ Metrics identification and development
- ★ Evaluation planning
- ★ Evaluation of programs and services

LEARNING DESIGN & CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT

A cross-functional team of researchers, subject matter experts, and learning designers work together to create products that meet your goals while making sure you have the most engaging and effective tools to enhance learning.

Our method of design and development ensures a quality learning intervention that is science-based, actionable, measurable, and original.

Combined with the use of new technologies, we create a first-rate learning experience that your audience will remember.

APPLIED RESEARCH

The challenges facing military families today—and the number of available programs for families and children—can be overwhelming.

Our research and evaluation scientists systematically and continuously review programs for service members and families to help you make informed decisions about which program best fits your need.

We help to identify, select, develop, and implement the appropriate research-informed programs and practices that address a wide range of challenges—from healthy parenting to preventing problematic and risky behaviors.

IMPLEMENTATION SUPPORT

Our implementation scientists are here to help you implement, evaluate, and sustain evidence-based programs that meet the needs of the community you serve.

We're here to work with you through the entire process, making sure that your hard work and dedication translate to the desired results—healthier military families.

Our support team is here to help:

- ★ Conduct a rapid literature and resource review
- ★ Suggest the best research-informed program or practice for specific situations
- ★ Develop a program to fit your specific need
- ★ Create a strategy for program evaluation and sustainability
